

Badges and Leaderboard for the End User

The purpose of the Leaderboard functionality is to introduce learning gamification, by enabling employees/learners to compare points and badges they have earned through learning, to other employees/learners in their team or company. Companies can combine badges with internal reward programmes to encourage employees/learners to complete their required training on time. Using badges as part of a training strategy, can enhance business performance.

The "achievements section" also provides the employees/learners with a summary of qualifications, courses and other learning initiatives completed.

Badges

The Badges section on the My Training History/My Achievements tab, displays a list of all courses which have Badges and Points linked to them. It is important to note, that not all training courses have linked Badges or Points.

Badges, consist of a Leaderboard and My Badges section.

The screenshot displays the 'Badges' section of a user interface. At the top, there are five colored boxes representing different metrics: '11 BADGES' (1255 points) in blue, '20 COURSES' in light red, '1 QUALIFICATION' in light orange, '2 PROGRAMMES' in light green, and '1 UNIT' in light purple. To the right of these boxes is a yellow star icon with the text 'SUPER Star!'. Below these boxes, the interface is split into two main sections: 'Leaderboard' and 'My Badges'. The 'Leaderboard' section has a blue header with 'by Badges' and a dropdown arrow. Below the header, it shows 'Your ranking in Job: Orange / Purple' and a list of three users: 'You' (rank 11, 1255 points, identity visible), 'Elize Marais' (rank 10, 15 points), and 'Deborah Niemand' (rank 1, 3 points). The 'My Badges' section has a blue header and displays two badges: '1 Point Badge TI' (15 points) and '3 Point Badge TI' (3 points).

Leaderboard:

On the Leaderboard employees/learners can view their training based on:

- Badges
- Points

image not found or type unknown

Or employees/learners can view their training compared to others based on their ranking in:

- Training Level
- Company
- Job

Your ranking in :

- Training Level
  - Training Levels are defined based on the number of points obtained by a learner.
  - When a learner has obtained the number of points that fall within the range for that training level, they are classified in that Training Level.
  - For example, in order to reach the Stroller Training Level, a learner need to have between 50-99 Points awarded to them.
- Company:
  - The employee/learner is ranked against other employees on the same organisational node, the node directly above and the top most organisational node.
  - For example, employees/learners can view their ranking compared to everyone appointed Sales, if they are appointed in the Sales department (same node). Employees/learners can compare themselves everyone appointed in Gauteng (node directly above). Employees/learners can also compare themselves to the Senior Management node (top most organisational node).
- Job
  - This compares learners who are appointed in the same Job and who fall within the same Job Family to each other.
  - For example, employees/learners who are appointed in the Business Analyst position, will be able to compare themselves to all other Business Analysts appointed in the same Job Family.

My Badges

All Badges employees/learners have obtained, are displayed in the My Badges section. For each badge obtained, the Badge image, Training Title and number of points earned per Badge is displayed.

The Click to Learn how you can earn more Points & Badges button displays more information regarding how to earn more Points and Badges.
