The Performance Management Dashboard for Managers

Every user forming part of the Performance Management process gets access to their own Performance Management Dashboard. If a person manages other users or employees, the person fulfils the role of performance manager and gets access to a Performance Management Dashboard for Managers.

The activities described below are from the viewpoint of a performance manager, assisting their employees during the performance management process. Except for the submission of objectives (done by an employee themselves) and the submission of self-rated objectives (also done by an employee), a performance manager has control over all aspects of an employee's Performance Contract. If you are a performance manager, we recommend also viewing The Performance Management Dashboard for Employees section. On this page, we will focus on additional functionalities only.

What can a manager do on the Performance Management Dashboard for Managers?

Manage their own Performance Contract (in their capacity as a regular user).

Manage the performance contracts of the manager's own, direct reporting lines.

Manage the performance contracts of ad-hoc groups of people - if assigned to this manager.

Create a new performance contract for their employees.

View existing and previous Performance Contracts of employees.

Determine the progress of a Performance Contract phase of an employee and determine the next step.

Get overall progress stats for his/her department.

Print employee contracts.

Perform Check-ins on employee performance agreement objectives. And view the reply from the employee.

#1 Switch between groups of people

A performance manager has access to their own Performance Management Dashboard, similar to those of other users, as seen below. However, a manager can also switch to a separate view which allows for the management of the Performance Contracts of other users.

My Performance Contract My Team in Executive Management My Team in Senior Management

- At the top of the dashboard page, select the applicable performance year, then click the toggle button to switch to the contracts of that team.

Performance Year 2022

MY PERFORMANCE CONTRACT

MY TEAM IN 2022 CAREER CONVERSATION (RATED)

The view displays the regular performance cycle timeline, as well as a list of employees or users in the selected group.

Note that you could have access to 3 types of people or people groups via the toggle button. Although the groups - and your responsibilities towards them - may differ, you have the same access (features and functionalities) to the individuals.

Your own Performance Contract

Employees reporting to you as their direct line or performance manager.

Employees in other groups (e.g. Senior Management). These do not necessarily report to you, but you might be responsible for their Performance Management.

#2 Where should you focus?

Managing several employees with contracts in various stages and phases of the Performance Management cycle can be daunting.

We took the guessing out of the management by grouping the employees according to the following phases. Just note the phases will repeat for each review period in the Performance Contract.

As a manager, you can assist with every step, but in the tables below, we assume the employee will perform their tasks to the fullest.

This employee is in the Objective Setting phase.
